This instruction implements AFD 10-11, Operations Security, and provides guidance for safeguarding information on certain sensitive US Air Force airborne and surface reconnaissance programs.

SUMMARY OF REVISIONS

This is the initial publication of AFI 10-1103 which replaces AFR 55-29.

1. Need-to-Know. All those with information regarding sensitive reconnaissance programs must understand the importance of safeguarding that information. They will provide access to sensitive reconnaissance program information or material only to those with a justified need-to-know.

2. Protective Measures. Major commands, field operating agencies, direct reporting units, and their subordinate units will protect sensitive reconnaissance programs under their control and will:

- Appoint program managers (PM) to oversee all aspects of security.
- Establish special access programs following procedures in AFI 16-701, The US Air Force Access Programs, if normal security and safeguarding procedures are not sufficient to limit access.
- Supplement this instruction, if required.

3. Record Keeping. PMs or their delegated representatives will indoctrinate, debrief, and maintain a record of those with access to sensitive reconnaissance programs.

About the ITAOP/savePDF Method

The traditional Field-by-Field creation process is extremely ineffective and slow.

The only realistic option to create high-quality forms is the Insert-Text-Anywhere-on-Page (ITAOP) method.

The field creation process is about 10,000 times faster than the traditional method; the list of ITAOP features is not even available for the traditional method.

ITAOP savePDF method proved to be very simple and completely reliable for millions of users all over the world (incl. individuals, companies, organizations, government employees).

4. Classification. The author of documents relating to sensitive reconnaissance programs will classify them using appropriate program classification guides.
