About The Fulbright Teacher and Administrator Exchange Program

The purpose of the Fulbright Teacher and Administrator Exchange Program is to help promote mutual understanding between the people of the United States and the people of other countries through educational exchange. Teachers and administrators participating in the program have the opportunity to live and work abroad by exchanging positions with educators from similar institutions in more than twenty countries. Teachers may also apply to attend summer seminars or special initiative/pilot programs.

Fulbright exchange teachers usually exchange positions with foreign teachers for an academic year. By living and working in the cultures of their host countries, they gain an understanding and appreciation of the similarities and the differences between nations. If your teacher is proposed for an exchange, you will have the opportunity to review the credentials of the foreign teacher and to accept or reject the proposed exchange arrangement. In order for an exchange to take place it must be accepted by the U.S. teacher, the U.S. administrators, and the foreign teacher, and the foreign administrators, and must be approved by the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board (FSB).

At the time of this application your signature on the reverse administrative approval form simply enables your teacher to be eligible for the program and indicates your willingness to consider a Fulbright Teacher Exchange at your school/college.

The success of the Fulbright Teacher and Administrator Exchange Program in increasing international understanding and properly representing the educational system and other aspects of American life and culture depends greatly upon the exercise of judgment by school administrators in approving their teachers'/administrators' participation in the program. It is important to the reputation of the program and the American educational system, as well as that of the participating school, that an applicant be approved for participation only if the approving official has no reservations about his or her character, reliability, and judges him or her to have superior qualifications and to be an excellent representative of American education.

Most exchanges occur with both U.S. teachers and foreign teachers receiving their regular salaries from their home schools while teaching and living abroad, though specific arrangements vary for each country. U.S. schools will not be asked to pay the salaries of the foreign exchange teachers. Housing arrangements are the responsibility of the teachers involved.

Both the U.S. and the foreign teacher will be provided with a limited medical insurance policy by the U.S. government. However, your teacher should continue his or her current coverage from your school, and we encourage you to consider including your foreign teacher and any accompanying family members in your local group health plan.
